

Nominations and applications are now being sought for the role of Senior Associate Editor for the Journal of Sport Management. Appointment to the role of Senior Associate Editor will take effect at the conclusion of the next NASSM conference in June 2018. The Senior Associate Editor assists the Editor in managing JSM generally, and specifically handles manuscripts during the review process, oversees the Book Review and Sport Management Digest sections of JSM as well as oversight of Special Issues and working with Special Issue editors to ensure consistency of publication. Senior Associate Editors serve a 3 year term before moving into the Editor position.

Nominations, including self-nominations, should be sent to the current Senior Associate Editor, Professor Janet Fink at jsfink@isenberg.umass.edu by July 17, 2017.

Applicants, as part of stage 1 of the selection process, should succinctly address the following criteria to demonstrate their qualifications to fulfil this role.

- 1) Significant scholarly contributions to the field of Sport Management, including publications in the journal for which the Editorship is being considered.
- 2) Extensive reputation reviewing manuscripts for publication, an editorial board member, and/or an editor of a sport management-related journal.
- 3) Demonstrated administrative skills, capacity to handle a demanding workload and meet deadlines, and ability to work constructively with authors, reviewers, and the Executive Council.
- 4) A professional member of NASSM.
- 5) Familiarity with online submission and review systems.

Applicants with appropriate experience and qualifications will be invited to move to a second stage of the selection process as indicated below.

6. For applicants invited to second stage: A clear vision for furthering the goals and mission of the Journal (as described in the editorial mission statement contained in each issue) for which the Editorship is being considered.
